

Transition Capital Partners (“TCP”) Promotes Jason Faucett and Keith Driscoll to Managing Director

Transition Capital Partners, a Dallas-based, family office funded, private investment firm, is pleased to announce the promotion of Jason Faucett and Keith Driscoll to Managing Director.

Jason was first associated with TCP in 2003 when he was part of the management team at a portfolio company. He then joined TCP in 2009. Jason focuses on new investment origination, portfolio management and investor relations.

Keith joined TCP in 2008 and focuses on new investment diligence, portfolio management and service provider and financing partner management.

“Jason and Keith have been integral to TCP’s growth and evolution over the past 8+ years. I am fortunate to be a part of their career progression and proud to call them partners” said Andy Foskey, TCP Managing Partner.

About TCP

Transition Capital Partners (“TCP”) is a Dallas, TX based, family office funded, private investment firm. Founded in 1993, TCP has successfully invested in over 40 lower middle market companies spanning a diverse array of industries. TCP is affiliated with the Patterson Thoma Family office.

TCP partners with management teams to build sustainable value in businesses over the long-term, without the artificial constraints fundraising cycles create for traditional private equity funds. With more than twenty years of proven success, we have a long track record of collaborating with our partners to accelerate the growth of lower middle market companies.
